Two days, one direction each

Kyoto
in two days

Higashiyama · Arashiyama · Fushimi Inari

One loop, in order

Day one east on foot, day two out west — no doubling back.

The money is all small money

One base, one direction per day

01	Distance walked, both days	32.4 km
02	Steps	48,213
03	Bus & subway day pass	¥600 / day
04	Kiyomizu-dera entry	¥400
05	Matcha, thick + ice cream	× 3
06	Inari mountain round trip	¥0 · 2 hrs
07	Last sit by the Kamo	21:47

* Sample figures, layout demo only

The stage at 7:40

The wooden stage is still asleep; the queue at Otowa waterfall is already longer than the stream. One early hour buys you the whole valley in silence — and a photo spot with nobody in it.

07:40 · the stage

D1 · Higashiyama

Uphill, then the pagoda

Shops along the Sannenzaka slopes are still shuttered; only the lanterns are awake. At the top of the stone paving you look up and the pagoda stands exactly in the middle of the street — Kyoto's best-composed block.

The pagoda ends the street, on purpose.

Gion, at dusk

Through the big trees of Maruyama Park and into Hanamikoji as the lanterns come on. A shamisen is being tuned behind a door; everyone in the lane lowers their voice.

17:30 · Gion

Reach the river as it turns dark

Pontocho lights up one lantern at a time; on the banks someone runs, someone plays guitar, someone does nothing at all. A Kyoto day should end here — sit until the wind cools.

Sit until the wind cools.

No.08 — 10

Arashiyama

Bamboo before the crowd

At 7:30 the grove holds only wind and the dry rattle of leaves; the sightseeing train has not started. Walk ten more minutes past the Tenryu-ji gate and the path empties out completely.

07:30 · Arashiyama

A thousand gates, keep climbing

Visitors queue to photograph the gates at the base; fewer than one in ten reach Yotsutsuji halfway up. The view over southern Kyoto from that terrace repays every step — and the mountain, at least, charges no entry.

Climb past the crowd line.

About this deck

Typeset by travel-photo-cards: 1242 × 1656, 3:4, ten cards, one HTML file. Copy is demo text; photographs are from Wikimedia Commons, remain the property of their authors, and are used under the licenses credited below.

Photo Credits · 图片来源

kyoto_cover.jpg — Guilhem Vellut — CC BY 2.0

kyoto_kiyomizu.jpg — Martin Falbisoner — CC BY-SA 4.0

kyoto_yasaka_dori.jpg — Basile Morin — CC BY-SA 4.0

kyoto_gion.jpg — HAGAT hOMSZE — CC0 1.0

kyoto_kamo.jpg — Yiannis Theologos Michellis — CC0 1.0

kyoto_bamboo.jpg — Basile Morin — CC BY-SA 4.0

kyoto_torii.jpg — Basile Morin — CC BY-SA 4.0

via commons.wikimedia.org